Latest News Developments

South African Citrus Growers' Association (CGA) said the proposed EU pest regulations are expected to hurt domestic citrus exports. Newly proposed European Union (EU) regulations threaten the export of oranges from the Southern African region to Europe, Should the regulations be agreed to by member countries, they will have a devastating impact on orange exports from South Africa to EU. An imposition of such regulations could result in large gaps in the supply chain and higher prices of oranges for European consumers. In South Africa, these new regulations will put the sustainability of the citrus industry at risk and the 140 000, mostly rural jobs at stake.

African Development Bank (AfDB) Group president Dr Akinwumi Adesina has called for an increased sense of urgency as Africa must prepare for the inevitability of a global food crisis. The continent's most vulnerable countries have been hit hardest by conflict, climate change and the Covid-19 pandemic. Dr Akinwumi says Africa with the lowest GDP growth rates lost about 30 million jobs due to the pandemic. Now due to the conflict in Eastern Europe; fertiliser prices have also tripled and energy prices have increased, driving up inflation. Further stating that the tripling costs of fertiliser, rising energy prices and rising costs of food baskets could worsen in Africa in the coming months.

Western Cape Agriculture Minister Ivan Meyer stated that forecasts are of an increase in fruit exports in the Western cape following the good rainfall in the province since 2018. According to deciduous fruit organisation Hortgro's export estimates; apple exports are projected to increase by 6% this year, while pear exports are expected to increase by 12% year-on-year. He further stated that the ongoing war between Russia and Ukraine has resulted in a sharp increase in some commodity prices, such as those of fertilisers and wheat due to limited supply and growing uncertainty for future supply.

The World Bank Group stated that the food and energy price surges worsened as a result of the Ukraine war could last through the end of 2024 due to disruptions in trade and production. Increase in energy prices, the largest since the 1973 oil crisis and is expected to pass 50% in 2022 before easing in 2023 and 2024. Prices for agriculture and metals are projected to increase almost 20% in 2022 before moderating at elevated levels in the following years.
