Bid rigging is, therefore, an agreement between competitors not to compete.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF REGISTRAR OF DEEDS

Private Bag X918, Pretoria, 0001; Tel: 012 338 7313 Fax: 012 338 7277

TERMS OF REFERENCE FOR THE APPOINTMENT OF A SUITABLY QUALIFIED SERVICE PROVIDER TO DRAFT A POLICY ON THE TRANSFORMATION OF THE DEEDS REGISTRATION LEGISLATION

1. PURPOSE

The Department of Agriculture, Land Reform and Rural Development (DALRRD) requires a suitably qualified service provider to draft a policy on the transformation of the Deeds Registration legislation. For this purpose the appointed service provider will have to investigate the pieces of legislation on the land registration system, especially the Deeds Registries Act, 1937 (Act 47 of 1937) and the Sectional Titles Act, 1986 (Act 95 of 1986), in order for such legislation to be revised, to align them with the Constitution, to purge those provisions which are antiquated and to incorporate certain provisions that cater for the realities of modern-day thinking, global developments, as well as Government policies relating to land reform and public administration.

2. BACKGROUND

- 2.1 The present land registration system in South Africa has its roots in the Deeds Registries Act, 1937 (Act 47 of 1937) ('the Act'). The Act makes provision for the administration of the land registration system and the registration of real rights in land. The Act has been able to provide a solid backbone to our registration system since its promulgation in 1937 without the need for a major re-write. However, in recent years, (and especially since 1991) the situation in the country, as well as global trends, has evolved at such a pace, and to such an extent, that new and varying demands are continuously being placed on our land registration system and therefore also on our Deeds legislation.
- 2.2 In South Africa, the law does not explicitly guarantee title to land and other real rights. The system of registration, (said to be one of the best in the world), is based on a juristic foundation and long-standing practices and procedures. It is this system which has the effect of "guaranteeing" title.
 - The system's processes of examination and registration, its control and monitoring of standards, its public register and information systems, and its methods of preserving records, all contribute towards providing security of title in the eyes of the law, financial institutions, and the public.

- 2.3 The legal certainty that a title deed issued under our registration system provides is of great significance to financial institutions, township developers, and the owners of property and holders of rights over property. It forms the basis for yearly investment of millions of rands in the development of housing for, amongst others, previously disadvantaged sectors of the population. Such investment stimulates and encourages investment in other business sectors and secures other types of development. This in turn promotes stability in the economic sector.
- 2.4 The Chief Directorate: Deeds Registration, (falling under the national Department of Agriculture, Land Reform and Rural Development), is charged with the administration of the land registration system in 11 centres, including the registration of rights to land and other matters prescribed by the Deeds Registries Act, the Sectional Titles Act, and other laws relating to land or rights in land.
- 2.5 Deeds Registries are established, (each in respect of its own area of jurisdiction), in terms of section 1 of the Deeds Registries Act. In respect of each such Registry, a Registrar of Deeds, Deputy Registrar(s) of Deeds and Assistant Registrars of Deeds are appointed in terms of section 2(1)(b) and (c) of the Act.
- 2.6 The core business of a Deeds Registry consists of the following:
 - To register deeds and other documents, and to perform the duties, as contemplated in section 3 of the Act;
 - To preserve records as prescribed by section 3(1)(a) of the Act;
 - To furnish information as prescribed by section 7 of the Act;
 - To maintain a public register of land as well as an efficient system of registration calculated to afford security of title to land and rights in land; and
 - Generally, to do all things necessary to achieve the above.
- 2.7 In terms of the Act, each Registrar of Deeds is individually responsible for maintaining a land register for immovable properties situated within his or her area of jurisdiction as well as a registration system calculated to afford security of title, and to provide information to any person on payment of the prescribed fee.
- 2.8 In terms of section 2(1)(a) of the Act, a Chief Registrar of Deeds is appointed to exercise such supervision over all the deeds registries as may be necessary in order to bring about uniformity in their practice and procedure. Apart from this provision, the Act is silent regarding any other duties, responsibilities and powers of the CRD. The duties and powers of Registrars of Deeds are contained in sections 3 and 4 which includes, amongst others, the maintaining of a land register for immovable properties situated within his or her area of jurisdiction, as well as a registration system calculated to afford security of title, and to provide information to any person on payment of the prescribed fee.

- 2.9 In view of the responsibilities outlined above, it is incumbent to constantly improve the deeds registration processes and environment as well as the duties of the CRD and Registrars of Deeds. This is also vital as there is an anticipated increase in demand on registration capacity, accuracy and efficiency necessitated by the land reform process, with the total registered land parcels expected to increase from around 7 million to an anticipated 20 million as a result of implementation of reforms emanating from the 2011 Green Paper on Land Reform.
- 2.10The Deeds Registration Transformation Policy and accompanying legislation is expected to result in an integrated and modern system for the registration and recordal of land and rights in land, rendering it capable of responding effectively to required demands. It is further expected to deal with the transformation of the deeds registration system in order to provide for an inclusionary land rights registration and recordal system that represents a continuum of rights and interests in land in South Africa.

3. PROBLEM STATEMENT

- 3.1 The Deeds Registries Act has been able to provide a solid backbone to our registration system since its promulgation in 1937 without the need for a major re-write. However, in recent years, (and especially since 1991) the situation in the country, as well as global trends, has evolved at such a pace, and to such an extent, that new and varying demands are continuously being placed on our land registration system and therefore also on our Deeds legislation.
- 3.2 The current deeds registry system is time consuming, complex, rigid and costly. More viable, secure and cost-effective methods of registration and recordal must therefore be adopted. New legislation is needed to give effect to, and support, all relevant aspects of the Constitution.
- 3.3 Act 47 of 1937 does not provide for persons other than Notaries Public to prepare notarial deeds. High notarial cost result in the stimulating of informal transfers and is also not indigent-sensitive.
- 3.4 Notwithstanding the fact that the said Act had been revised on a regular basis, it still contains many antiquated provisions. The Act also lacks provisions that will bring it in line with global technological and land reform developments as well as with current Government policies in this regard.
- 3.5 It is therefore necessary for the establishment of an efficient and conclusive land registration system that retains the current meticulous and reliable characteristics of the present system, whilst proving capable of handling the future increase in the number of registration activities; for the land registration system to be aligned with the Constitution; purging from the deeds registration legislation those provisions which are antiquated and incorporating certain provisions that cater for the realities of modern-day thinking and global developments; catering for Government policies relating to land reform and public administration; and also catering for the registration and recordal of all forms of land tenure rights in South Africa.

4. PROJECT OBJECTIVES

The objective of the project is the following:

The development of a Deeds Registration Transformation Policy that will lead to the following:

- Consolidation of legislation that will provide mechanisms and procedures for the registration and recordal of rights in land including but not limited to customary, informal and communal forms of tenure which are recognised, or in future will be introduced and be recognised by law;
- Enactment of provisions which will cater for the realities of modern-day thinking and which will bring it in line with global technological and land reform developments as well as with current Government policies in this regard;
- New legislation that give effect to, and support, all aspects of the Constitution including gender equality;
- Co-ordination of registration law reforms with other property related legislation including spatial planning and land use;
- The design, introduction and improvement of risk management principles in the examination and handling of documents for registration;
- Provision of a simplified, cost effective registration and recordal system that is widely accessible;
- Provisions for persons other than Notaries Public to prepare certain deeds currently reserved for the preparation by Notaries Public only.
- Fully defined duties, responsibilities, accountability and authority of the CRD;
- Provision of registration capability for other forms of rights in land the Government may introduce in future;
- Alignment and incorporation of the provisions of the electronic deeds registration system into new legislation;
- Establishment of a legislative and policy environment conducive for the creation of a comprehensive register in which all rights and interests in land are registered and recorded; and
- Repeal of the Deeds Registries Act 47 of 1937 and the Electronic Deeds Registration System Act 19 of 2019 and the replacement thereof with new legislation (for example a Land Rights Registration and Recordal Act).

5. SCOPE OF THE PROJECT
